TILDEN AND WICKHAM

The Manhattan Club Massing Their Guests to Meet Governor Tilden and Mayor Wickham.

Who Will be the Hero of the Next Hour?

Castronomical Cathering of Governors, Senators, Statesmen and Soldiers.

Tilden Toasted and Wickham Welcomed.

The Speeches, Letters, Festivities and the Banquet

The Manhattan Club has achieved another grand coup. Not content with its last sucthe sait of the democratic earth mediately after the victory of November, they de another essay last evening, and, instead of the three hundred gentlemen who were present in the loss of Massachusetts, a thousand gentlemen were last eight in the parlors and lounging rooms of the social and conservative temple of

It resembled a night in Washington just before the war came upon the face of the democratic party like a speck of varioloid. in every way a gathering of who, having a social status and for good wines and the cuisine club, came together ostensibly to give Governor Tilden and Mayor Wickham a hearty reception, but in the intervals of speeches and cork-popping it was found necessary to discuss who should be Senator in the place of Fenton and President in the chair of Ulysses.

As the carriages rolled round the old Benkard mansion it was noticeable that the Manhattan club, which at one time, and not very long ago, was flickering like a tallow candle to the edge, had on this occasion blazed out with the glory of a modern chandeher. The American flag was everywhere, and patriotism and success covered with their ample folds all those who had strayed away during the civil war or the conflicts of the Guelphic and Ghibelline factions of the local

But in this vast throng of elect of the democracy of the country there were two spaces which were not filled up. Tuese spaces were void because of the absence of Catus Marius Jo-McKeon and Achilles J. Creamer, cause of the absence of Caius Marius Johannes McKeon and Achilles J. Creamer, who was said to be sulking in the coffee room of a neighboring German hotel. As the hour drew near for the reception to open in all its iestive grandeur, a message came to the Manhatian Club in hot haste and in this wise:—

"Pell the prator Douglas Taylor and his master Sylla Thiden that you have seen Marius McKeon atting a lugilive amid the ruins of the hard shell demecracy. And tell Mecanas Belimont that I have refused the Consaliship before now and my ashes are not for Spuyten Buyyil Creek."

Notwithstanding the remembrance of the slain and wonnede, the reveiry was high in the halls of the Manhattan Club. It would have taken the descriptive genius of a lorty horse power Jenkins to teil all the witty and biting things that were said during the evening. The most biting things, of course, were said at supper. Is it really possible to discuss politics properly and without heat in the absence of a French cook, who wears the cordon bleu of a Pijuxi The members of the Manhattan Club and their guesis last evening had been prepared for such an alternative, and the board groaned with the efforts of the chef and his assistant Delice. Sea and earth and air had been ravished of their choicest delicacies to suit the conservative appetite. Each of the guests had, of course, his favorite dish and paid special attention only to that dish.

Benjamin Wood viewed a historical turkey, Robert B. Roosevelt a salmon of the Regency, John K. Brady paid his respects to the pieces wondes La Harpe de la Verte Erin, George W. McLean admired the Bacchus et son Tonneao, and Martin McManon and General William B. Franklin were quite vivacious in their praise of Le Trophe Milliaire. Those wno were fond of music leaned over the broad and ample staircases and instened to the band as it played soit music, while baid-headed geniemen discussed Andrew Jackson, the National Bank question of 1837 and the Allen and Sedition laws. Among these who seemed most peace of the gocc soit music, while bald-headed gentlemen discussed Andrew Jackson, the National Bank question of 1837 and the Alien and Sedition laws. Among three who seemed most pleased at the gathering of this social democratic nost were those two eminently solid old patriarchs, Peter Cooper and Wilson G. Hunt. And moving hither and thither might be seen R. H. Marr, a most peaceable-looking gentlemen, who gave no idea in his appearance of being the man who in one night overthrew the Keilogg pro-consulate at New Orleans, in his vicinity were Governor Ingersoil, of Connecticut, and Governors Bedie and Joel Parker, of New Jersey, and standing near the doorway of the parlor were August Beimont, President of the Manhattan Club, in spoiles array, welcoming the streaming array of guests who paid their respects to him. There is a group in a corner worthy of notice—Samuel L. M. Barlow, conversing with Cinel Justice Barbour, and Senator Stockton, of New Jersey, while Governor Triden and Jonn L. Agnew, comes up and nows, and there is a chat, in which William Eutler Duncan takes part for a moment. Is this conversation vital to the interests of the democrate party, and is it settled that Tilden shail vacate the Gubernatorial chair and take the Senatorship? Who will be the happy man? Can Whilam C. Kingsley, just got in irom Brooklyn, tell, and is his war cry, "Murphy to the Iront?" There are a good many judges here—Baly, Shea, Monell, Jones, Larremore, Van Brunt, Lawrence, Spencer, Rapailo, Alien, Hackett, Sutherland, Barrett, Curtis—and, in fact, the Bench is to-night a levy en masse, b Then there are the social and quiet gentlemen who do not care so much for pointics, but talk of bails, parties, charitable fairs and receptions. Among this number may be seen Delancey Kane, Denis O'Donohue, Leon Aboett, N. W. S. Jarvis, Governor Hofman, who devore his time to the steamship traffic. Manton Marble is to be found among a small knot of book men discussing Robert Euchanan and his favorite Swindurine, and Amasa J. Parker holds conference with ex assured that the Manhattan Club is the corner stone and buttrees of the democratic party of the United States, after the experience of this night's festivity.

The large room where the formal reception was tendered was densely crowded when the President of the club, Angust Belmont, called the meeting to order, addressing the members of the club and the invited guesus.

MR. Belmont's Speech.

MR. Belmont said:—We have met here this eyening in order to testily our good feeling and great respect to two members of our club, on whom the two highest offices within their gilt. In a few days Mr. Biden will assume the functions of Governor of the State of New York, and Mr. Wickham will enter upon the equally nonorable and ardnous duties of Mayor of this great metropolis. Our best wishes follow them to their new sphere of action, and we rejoice that the people of our State have chosen for their truers two men who is such an eminent degree possess the patriotism, the sagacity and the linegrity so requisite in the exaited positions to which they are cailed. It is an additional source of price and gratification to us, members of the Manhattan Club, that the Cluer Magistrates of the Empire State and Empire City have been taken from among us; and I, for one, am very much inclined to believe that their being members of this club had a great deal to do with their unprecedented success. It is true that the combination of which they are called to the true the members of the south of the south of the south of the members of the south of the south and applause.) Our worthy Governor has lately, in two admirable speeches, admonished the young men of the Republic as to their duty in taking a more article part in politics. He has given them most excellent advice how to go to work in order best to serve their country and at the same time gain distinction for themselves; but it has occurred to me that in his teachings he omitted one most essential point in not beling. in order best to serve their country and at the same time gain dictiocito for themselves; but it has occurred to me that in his teachings he omitted one most essential point in not teiling, them to become members of the Mannattan City A. daughter.] It may be that Mr. Thiche tydiks this so self-evident an element for Soccess that he did not deem it becessary to alunde to it, but so many errors and milacles have of late years crept into our social and political he that i consider it my duty to enlighten you on this subject. (Laughter and appliance.) I wish particularly to impress the truth and importance of my assertion upon the many distinguished democrats from different sections of the country who have honored us this evening by their presence. Among their friends and constituents, as well as in our own State and city, there will be many good and anorgapie to the sage teachings of Mr. Thiden, will be ready hereafter to give up the quiet and dignity of private station which they have been allowed to enjoy for the past iourteen years under the bessings of the radical rule. I may be a mile propact, but I make oold to predict that there will be in 1876 numerous candidates for Cabinet Ministers, foreign Ministers, Governors, Senators, members of Congress, collectors, surveyors, postmasters, for given Ministers, dec. (Great languiter.) Now, it is evident that after the brilliant results in our own State the electors throughout the Union, as well as our next democratic President, will then first look among the members of the Manhattan Chio for the men to fill these different offices. We, the old members are lar from wishing to monopolize all tasse good things; on the contary, we write our democratic party, but we are nothing of the Manhattan Chio for the men or mit hese different offices. We, the old members are lar from wishing to monopolize all tasse good things; on the contary, we may to or ceive them with open arms. (Laughter and Chers.) We have been called the sitk stocking anstocracy of the democratic party, but

The President then introduced the Governorelect.

MR. TILDEN'S SPEECH.

Great appiause greeted the venerable Chief Magistrate-elect of the State when he took his place on the platform. He shad:—

MR. President and Gentlemen of the Manhattan Club—i desire to remove the slight doubt which may have existed in the minds of my friends, particularly my friends of the club, by saying that beyond all question he was one of those young a en who der v-d advantage from my suggestion on a former occasion. (Lauguler).
I do not, therefore, deem it necessary to say that he should belong to the Manhattan Club, as he has already juffilled that pleasing duty. I thank you for the great kindness of your greeting, and I must beg to remind you that in a very lew days there will appear a document which it will be the pecunar pleasure and duty of the members of the cub—distinguishing them from the rest of the community—to read, You will, there ore, appreciate the prudence with which I lear to run the risk of exhausting your patience on this occasion.
I remember when Silas Wright made his first communication to the Legislative body of the State—
he was at the time in Canton—and as he sent off his message, sheet after sheet, to Albany, he ceased to have any power to conceive how much material was contained in those sheets when printed. When the message appeared, a talented journalist of that day, John L. Sutherland, described it as having been prepared with conscentions linless. And without venturing to anticipale that the next incumbent of that office will be able to instate a man who has left behind him such great traditionary renown, in anything, even in the length of his message. I venture to say I canbot run the hazard of exhausting the patience of the Manhattan Club
on this occasion, so shortly before that patience
may be called on to a much larger degree.
(Cheers.) neers.)
The President next introduced Mayor-elect Wickham.

The President next introduced Mayor-elect Wickham.

Mr. Wickham's sprech.

He said:—Members of the Manhattan Club, for the kind compliment you have just paid me, for this magnificent reception, and for the kind words of your President, and for all the kind acts of courtesy I received from the club during the recent campaign, I take this opportunity to make my grateful acknowledgments. Like my friend the Governor, so soon to speak to the chizens of the State on matters of legislation in which all the people feel the deepest interest, it would also be inopportune for me at this time to make any reference to legislative matters, and to this topic only could I address myself. But one thought suggests it sell, and to my mind this is a fitting time to give it utterance. In the plank of the democratic party under which we galhed so glorious a victory last November, and throughout the country, no sentiment met with so hearty a response or took so great a heid of the popular neart as that expressed in the words "nome rule and local self-government." I apply that to the State and to the city of New York, overburdened by taxation, into which the people have been run by Albany legislation, just as the States of the South have been overburdened by Washington legislation. (Cheers,) The mistakes of our government in this regard date from 1857, when an Albany Legislature took the management of the State from the hands of the people, and who were not responsible to the people, and over whom the people had no control, the government of the State and of the city. May we not hope that in the future we will be able to rescene the government of the State and ot the city. May we not hope that in the future we will be able to rescene the government of the State and city from this great evil now that the people nave, by a great and successful effort, restored the great principle of self-government? (Applause.)

the people had no control, the government of the State and of the city. May we not bope that in the future we will be able to rescue the government of the State and city from this great evil now that the people have, by a great and successful effort, restored the great principle of self-government? (Applause.)

The next speaker introduced was Government? (Applause.)

The next speaker introduced was Government? (Applause.)

My purpose in coming here to-night was not to make a speech—far from it. It was to meet Governor-elect friden and Mayor-elect Wicksam and their friends, and to participate with them in the social leasures of the occasion. I did not intend to depar? from that purpose, nor will I now it I can help it, notwithstanding that speechmaking seems to be the material part of the entertainment. Still, if a person holding a judicial position was not excussible in departing from such a rule. I however, perhaps, might be excused now as I am of the eve of reading the control of this great city have good causes for a supposition of the entertainment of the speechman dofthis great city have good causes for a supposition of the length and oreadin of the land in the great city have good causes for a supposition of the length and oreadin of the land in the great city have good causes for a supposition of the length and oreadin of the land in the great city have good causes for a supposition of the length and oreadin of the land in the great effort he has made in his own party in successfully combating fraud, and was principally instrumental in redeeming it from misrue and restoring to the people self-government. Applause.) And the people have generously rewarded him by putting him in the gubernaiorial chair, knowing well that they put there an honest man—a man of justice and immess of purpose, who will do als whole duly to them. And so also as to Mr. Wickham, their Mayor elect—a business gentieman, well acquainted with the affairs of the city, I am satisfied they never will have reason to regret. Now, here, with intelligent government against mob assertion, home rule, and for peace, with liberty regulated by law everywhere, will be the men of the future. Short speeches are in order, and I must stop. Popular tendencies are all right. Public opinion is aroused. In the words of the old huntsman's song—

The Governor elect, who is a good deal of an equestrian and quite famous in the favorite political field sport of New York called the still hunt will appreciate, I am sure, the words I have quoted. The Mayor elect will also. Gentlemen, I have done. (Applause.)

Among the other speakers on the occasion were Governor ingersoil, of Connecticut: Mr. Charles Among the other speakers on the occasion were Governor Ingersoil, of Connecticut: Mr. Charles James Paulkner, of Virginia; Mr. Marr, of Louisiana; Governor Parker, of New Jersey, and Mr. John Tarbox, of Massachusetts, and this concluded the reception of the Manhattan Club to the two successini candidates.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29, 1874. A pigeon shooting match between amateurs. representing New York and Philadelphia, took place on the Delaware to-day at the grounds of Mr. Sartort. The day was rather favorable for the sport, being slightly cloudy. The match was between C. Livingston and J. G. Heckscher, of New York, and General Grubb and George Potts, of Philadelpuia.

The snooting was at thirty yards rise, each contestant being entitled to shoot at twenty-five birds, under English rules, and the stake was $2.000.

The contest resulted in favor of New York by the following score:—

Livingston, 25; Heckscher, 14.—Total for New York, 39.

Grabb, 18; Potts, 10.—Total for Philadelphia, 28.
The birds were in excellent condition and flew well, and the shooting of Mr. Livingston was remarkably fine, his birds being ah killed clean. The shooting of the other parties was also fine, and several difficult shots were made.
Two sweepstakes were also shot for, and both were won by Mr. Heckscher. The latter had many admirers in the field.
